

Whānau Say:

We're recognising and respecting how baby is feeling and we respond to their needs.

Distraction still works but we need to be pretty quick with it.

We make sure sturdy and safe surfaces are clear to pull up to stand, and we help pēpi walk or 'cruise' along.

We are keeping a close eye on pēpi and the possible dangers in and around our kāinga.

