I like hearing you describe what I'm looking at and playing with. It helps me learn words for actions.

I can kōrero just like you now. Well, it sounds like that to me, even if the words might be muddled up – I know what I mean!

When I do something you've asked me to do and you mihi to me, it makes me feel really good. "He tino pai tō mahi."

If I'm tired and there's too much going on I can get a bit grumpy. Sometimes I just need some quiet time.

When I hear music it makes me want to kanikani. I can't stop myself from moving. Look at me! I can haka too.
